Railroads Prepare to Operate Trains with Outsiders if Men Are Called Out on Strike

MANAGERS CONFIDENT PLACES CAN BE FILLED.

President Ripley Declares Roads Will Operate to a Limited Extent.

(BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
CHICAGO, BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 15.—Although peace was seemingly possible in the proposed railroad strike today, the railroad continued their preparedness program by getting lists of retired engineers, others who have been promoted to higher position, shopmen who can run engines and others who might be counted on to fill the places of the strikers.

The Santa Fe, Pennsylvania and other big systems began an active campaign for men. Scores of detectives and employment agencies that make a business of furnishing guards have volunteered their services. The letter of a national detective agency said: "We can furnish 10,000 men, all of whom have enough knowledge of train operation to be quickly taught the rest."

Other agencies offered skilled and unskilled help that might be quickly transformed into train operatives. Some services would be satisfactory under a comparatively few experienced men.

RIPLLEY'S STATEMENT.
President Ripley of the Santa Fe is quoted as saying: "We shall try to operate our road to a limited extent. We will not predict how many of our men will stand by us in the strike of the four brotherhoods, nor will we estimate the number of shop men or outside men that could be relied on. We have been advertising for men for four weeks. Many have applied for positions, stating that they have had sufficient railroad experience to soon become competent operatives. How many would be available we cannot know until they have had practical tests. The shops are full of men who are anxious to get on engines."

OTHER MEN AVAILABLE.
The Illinois Central, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific and Texas roads are operating on a limited basis. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy will draw on its veteran engineers, it was announced, and operate trains if given proper protection. The management of the Rock Island reflected the views of many other roads when it was said no attempt would be made to operate less ample protection was given their trains and other property.

Officials of the Chicago Federation of Labor today refused to discuss the probable action of their organization in case of a strike. They pointed out that the four brotherhoods have always held themselves aloof from the "inferior unions" of other workers, and during strikes by the latter have continued to haul non-union freight and non-union workmen. Whether the unions would retaliate or show a "union spirit" and aid the strikers, both President John Fitzgerald and Secretary Edward Neckels refused to predict.

SHORT DAY.
continued meetings at their hotel for discussion of the question. Representatives of the employees, however, held no conference except informal conversations in the lobby of their hotel, maintaining that they would have nothing to discuss until the complete statement of the railroad's attitude was forthcoming.

Both sides continued silent regarding the discussion. The railroad managers decline absolutely to talk of the negotiations and about all the employees' officials will say is that there still is hope.

GARRETTSON'S VIEW.
"The lamp of hope will continue to burn until some one kicks it over," said B. Garrettson, spokesman for the employees, said smilingly as he left the White House. "Nothing has been done and nothing undone. We will see the President again whenever he desires to see us."

It is now up to the railroad. The situation has reached a point where it is hanging in a balance, and if the railroad will do their part there is no reason to believe that it will not be brought together. The situation might best be summed up by saying, let us continue praying."

Most of the discussion at the conference today revolved about the principle of the eight-hour day. The managers asserted that putting the eight-hour day into effect would cost them $100,000,000 a year, but the representatives of the employees refused this estimate to $20,000,000 a year. The employees suggested that the eight-hour day already is in effect on some roads, and that officers on those roads have stated they would not change back to the ten-hour day.

The President sought to find the basis for the opposition of the railroad to the eight-hour day, asking whether the managers did not believe it inevitable some time. The managers were firm, however, in their opposition to its adoption unless other collateral issues were taken up.

Representatives of both sides were told by the President that he would continue to do his duty and discover a basis of settlement and that it was their duty to the public to cooperate without minimizing the difficulties in the way of a solution. He sought to impress upon them that a break could be averted only by mutual concessions.

A WAY OUT.
When men close to the managers suggested that a way out might be found by the railroad, accepting the principle of the eight-hour day and then having an investigation by an impartial body of all collateral questions, representatives of the employees said they had heard of the plan before but that they would not commit themselves on it unless it was put in definite form.

In spite of the long series of conferences yesterday, discussion of the season began at the White House at 9 o'clock this morning and lasted almost continuously until 5 o'clock this afternoon. The managers and the President first met at 9 o'clock and were followed by the employees. Both managers and employees were tagged out by the long conferences, but said they would meet at the President's call as long as there was any possibility of settlement.

W. B. Carter of the Brotherhood of Railroad Firemen and Engineers, and one of the sub-committee that has been conferring with President Wilson, left for New York late tonight to lay the situation before the Committee of 44. It was said that despite the request that the full committee come to Washington, some leaders believed Carter's conference in New York tomorrow might make it unnecessary for the other committee members to be called into the conferences here.

Navy Bill.

publican side for the votes that will pass this larger programme. The Senate amendments to which the House disagreed and which will be referred again to conference included these appropriations: $1,000,000 for equipment of the Puget Sound, Philadelphia, Norfolk, Boston, Portsmouth, Charleston and New Orleans navy yards for construction of warships, with immediate equipment of the Puget Sound, Philadelphia, Boston and Norfolk yards to build capital ships, $1,150,000 additional for improvements at the Charleston navy yard, including a drydock to cost $1,600,000; $300,000 to enlarge facilities of the Portsmouth navy yard; $100,000 for a new wharf at the New Orleans navy yard; $500,000 for investigation of the submarine and aviation bases and plans for defenses of harbors and canals.

DANIELS'S STATEMENT.

Secretary Daniels's statement, in part, follows: "The navy bill carries the largest appropriation for the navy ever carried in a single appropriation bill in our country. Naval authorities abroad state that this authorization will make our navy the second largest in the world in every unit that goes to make a powerful fighting force."

The first recommendation ever made by a Chief Executive for a continuing programme for naval construction was made by President Wilson in his message to Congress last December and it was gratifying to all who believe in a strong navy that the President's recommendation should have been adopted.

RAN ON "TWILIGHT SLEEP."
(BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
BALTIMORE (Md.) Aug. 15.—The doctors of Johns Hopkins Hospital have decided to stop all "twilight sleep" experiments on the grounds that they involve too much danger to mother and child.

WHAT WILL BE BUILT.
The three-year continuing programme insisted on by President Wilson will give our navy the following additions: six battle cruisers, ten scout cruisers, fifty torpedo-boat destroyers, nine fleet submarines, fifty-eight coast submarines, three fuel ships, one repair ship, two destroyer tenders, one fleet submarine tender, two auxiliary ships and two gunboats, not counting the additional air craft and dirigibles appropriated in one year for aviation will add to the naval strength.

"Probably the best way to understand the true significance of the three-year building programme authorized is to state that its construction, together with the other ships authorized under Wilson's administration, will cost $55,329,923. In order to show the increase in recent years I have examined the record since 1900 and it shows that the total cost of naval craft authorized in the quadrennial period is as follows:

"During the McKinley-Roosevelt four years, $107,044,442. During the Roosevelt four years, $33,122,923. During the Taft four years, $157,747,113. During the Wilson administration, $55,329,923. I give the total authorizations by each administration.

Already the plans have been made for nearly all these ships to be built this year except battle cruisers, and as soon as the President signs the bill advertisements will be made for bids for their construction. Plans will be completed within two or three months for the battle cruisers.

MORE FIGHTING MEN.
"No less important than the increase in fighting craft is the increase in fighting men. The increased number of additional men authorized is 27,264, and, in addition, the bill provides that in case of emergency the President may increase the enlistment to 37,000, which would be an increase over the number authorized at the close of the Taft administration of 15,600."

"I am particularly pleased that in the provision for the increase in officers Congress has adopted the principle of promotion by selection. Without the adoption of a plan where merit instead of seniority would control in the selection of officers for high command, the big programme adopted would lack this essential assurance of efficiency."

When the bill is signed by the President I will make a summary of its many other excellent features, so many that I cannot mention them, for they make a bill so complete and nearly perfect that it will stand as a model for all navy bills for future legislation.

LABOR SHORTAGE FEARED.
With an unprecedented naval building programme facing them, navy officials are concerned over the shortage of trained mechanics available for carrying out such of the new work as may be sent to government yards. Officials believe there will be considerable delay in both public and private yards due to this. The key of the battleships California and Tennessee still are to be laid, although contracts for their construction were awarded to the Mare Island and Brooklyn navy yards, respectively, many months ago. Work on the California is expected to begin early next month as enlargement of the ship at Mare Island is proceeding rapidly.

A system of determining the efficiency of naval officers of high rank, under which the standing of each vessel in battle efficiency, target practice, engineering, and other branches of ship work will become part of the commander's record, is being drawn out by the Navy Department.

The new plan is a part of the machinery by which the department is preparing to carry out provisions of the pending naval bill substituting selective promotion of higher officers for the present seniority system. The department also is preparing a new examination system for junior officers in order to determine as closely as possible their fitness for higher rank.

WOULD PROTECT RIGHTS ABROAD

Hughes's Strong Declaration to Uphold Our Honor.

Insists Protective Tariff is the Need of the Hour.

Leaves for Seattle After a Speech in Tacoma.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
TACOMA, Aug. 15.—Charles E. Hughes today told an audience in Tacoma's stadium that he would not shrink from war in enforcing American rights abroad.

Mr. Hughes read the Democratic programme of 1912, declaring for the protection of American rights abroad. "I want that made real," the nominee said, "I do not think that in making that real we encounter the danger of war. I would not shrink from it, if we did, in performing the obvious duty."

Mr. Hughes confined his remarks almost wholly to what he termed the need for a protective tariff. "I propose a wise tariff without abuse," he said, "but frankly a tariff to build up and maintain American industries."

TARIFF LEGISLATION.
Mr. Hughes reviewed Democratic tariff legislation and the Democratic platform plank of 1912, relating to the tariff.

"Our opponents said they would reduce the cost of living," he said. "Behold the result. Through an unfortunate development in the Republican party, which is now happily healed, our opponents got power, and did not reduce the cost of living. We don't propose that the shortcomings of the administration with respect to the protection of American industries shall be forgotten. They want to forget them. They think that the European war, like charity, covers a multitude of sins."

Mr. Hughes referred to a statement issued by Secretary McAdoo soon after the war started in 1914 in which it was announced that $500,000,000 in emergency currency was available to relieve financial stringency.

THE VREELAND LAW.
"Our opponents had to resort to a Republican measure of precaution, the Vreeland law," he said, "to still the fear that their policy had rendered among the people of this country. It was the Republican measure that took us through that critical period."

Reverting to the tariff, Mr. Hughes asked why the Democratic party wanted a tariff commission. "Do they want a commission to frame a tariff for revenue only?" he asked. "It was a tariff commission for the purpose of carrying out the protective principle, not block it."

"The anti-dumping provision of the pending revenue bill was discussed by Mr. Hughes. "I have had some experience with statutes," he said, "and if that statute works it will be a tremendous surprise to me."

Mr. Hughes left at 4:40 p.m. for Seattle.

HOPE TO DEFEAT TAX ON BRANDY

Phelan Fails to Get Caucus to Accept Reduction.

Congressmen Secure Promise from Leader Kitchen.

Outlook for California if Bill Goes Through.

(WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—) Decision of the Senate Democratic caucus last night to accept the Finance Committee recommendation that still be taxed 5 cents per gallon in fortifying sweet wines, caused a number of protest in the California legislature today. Senator Phelan's plan to get the caucus to accept the rates, which are much higher than the rates of the other states, will not be the end of the matter, as it will not adequately protect California.

California Representative Kahn, who secured a positive promise from the Finance Committee today, is in forthcoming conference on the revenue bill. Representative Phelan, who is the House leader, will be one of the House conferees, according to the House bill. The House bill provides a tax running from 4 cents to 10 cents per gallon on wines of alcoholic content and from 14 to 24 per cent, with 10 per cent on spirits, according to the Senate bill.

Senator Stone of Missouri and Governor of Ohio are expected to be Phelan's defeat in the Senate. Most of the "fake" wines produced in the country are made in California and in "putting over" the rates are working to handily. If not destroyed, the California wine industry will be ruined.

HOPE TO DEFEAT TAX ON BRANDY

Phelan Fails to Get Caucus to Accept Reduction.

Congressmen Secure Promise from Leader Kitchen.

Outlook for California if Bill Goes Through.

(WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—) Decision of the Senate Democratic caucus last night to accept the Finance Committee recommendation that still be taxed 5 cents per gallon in fortifying sweet wines, caused a number of protest in the California legislature today. Senator Phelan's plan to get the caucus to accept the rates, which are much higher than the rates of the other states, will not be the end of the matter, as it will not adequately protect California.

California Representative Kahn, who secured a positive promise from the Finance Committee today, is in forthcoming conference on the revenue bill. Representative Phelan, who is the House leader, will be one of the House conferees, according to the House bill. The House bill provides a tax running from 4 cents to 10 cents per gallon on wines of alcoholic content and from 14 to 24 per cent, with 10 per cent on spirits, according to the Senate bill.

Senator Stone of Missouri and Governor of Ohio are expected to be Phelan's defeat in the Senate. Most of the "fake" wines produced in the country are made in California and in "putting over" the rates are working to handily. If not destroyed, the California wine industry will be ruined.

KING'S VISIT
KEPT SECRET.British Monarch Spends Week
Along Somme Front.Inspects Trenches and Field
Where Men Charged.Lifts His Hat at Grave of an Unknown Soldier.

(BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN

FRANCE (via London) Aug. 15, 7

p.m.—King George has been at the front for a week. He left today for England, and his departure was the first information that the majority of the troops had of his presence. As a matter of precaution the visit was kept a secret, and there was no display of big reviews as on the occasion of his visit last fall.

The King simply went about seeing all sections of the army at work and the fields it had won.

The royal coat of arms as a motor car sped along the roads in clouds

of dust, and motor truck drivers and passing battalions started and looked around, exclaiming, "The King." The Prince of Wales was with the King all the time. The monarch was dressed in khaki with the crossed batons of a field marshal on his shoulders, and the Prince wore the uniform of a lieutenant in the Grenadier Guards. Neither wore any decorations, and but for their features, which were immediately recognized everywhere, they might have been taken for two of a party of officers making a round of inspection.

CONFERS WITH GENERALS.

At one point on the line the King

met Gen. Sir Henry Rawlinson,

commander of the Fourth Army,

which delivered the main attack,

and Maj.-Gen. Congreve, whose corps stormed Montauban and Ma-metz. Alighting from his automobile near Fricourt, the King went into the first line of British trenches

from which the British made their charge. "Now I will breast the parapet as my men did," he said, mounting it. He walked across the

No Man's Land and saw the effects of the British shell fire on the masses of fortifications and trenches

which the British had wrested from the Germans. Standing on the edge of a big shell crater the King looked with a sailor's telescope he was carrying across the foreground of destruction toward Pozieres, the Baze-tines, Longueval and Delville wood.

He watched the curls of black smoke which signified that the Germans' guns were busy, while near by him a battery of British guns

was sending screaming answers.

KING'S COMMENT.

"You seem to have missed that,"

he said to Gen. Rawlinson, indicating a silver of wall still standing in Mametz.

"But there is nothing that is not down in La Boisselle as you will see. Your Majesty," said Gen. Rawlinson. "We improve as we advance."

When the King wanted to descend

one of the deep German dugouts

Gen. Rawlinson warned him that they had not all been cleaned out

yet, and when the King came back up the steps sniffing, he said: "It smells pretty strong."

Remarking on the depth and

Prince of Wales halted and saluted

the cross.

CALLS IT SPORTING.

"It was sporting of the King to come here," said one of the soldiers,

"and if Fritz only knew it wouldn't be begin a strife with his guns?"

As it is Whistling Percy might let loose any minute. Whistling

Percy was a noisy shell

from the German guns.

In common with all visitors, the King took away some souvenirs in the shape of empty shell cases and bits of German equipment. As he was leaving the field the soldiers of the reserves, the transport men, gunners on relief and others in the neighborhood followed him until they saw a large crowd under the party before they entered their automobile. Somebody called for three cheers for the King, which were given with a will.

Sir Douglas Haig, as the King's host, told him what was worth seeing

during his visit, and then the King laid out his own programme each day. This led him to have a look at a town which had been shelled recently by guns of his caliber. As he and the Prince went about leisurely examining the enormous craters in the square and the ruins of the old town hall, the attendants were considering what might happen if another crater was made where the occupant and huge crowd around the square. Etiquette did not permit them to let royalty to move on but they suggested it politely. Royalty, however, persisted in remaining in the square until curiosity was sat-

Is Believed She Knows Man's Hiding Place.

For more than two hours yesterday afternoon Mrs. W. E. Wing, supposed friend and associate of Warren E. Gibbons, fugitive from justice on government warrants, was closeted with special agents of the Department of Justice, Willis Gibbons, former clerk of the United States Reclamation Service at Phoenix, was lying in the County Jail awaiting the arraignment for his bail of $2500. Mrs. Wing was a daily visitor.

Gibbons was only captured after a three-year chase leading to nearly all parts of the United States. He was charged with having forged Reclamation Service warrants for over $1000. At the time of his first arrest he managed to escape. Three weeks ago, when brought in a second time, he was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hammack and bound over to the Federal grand jury on a bond of $2500.

The woman eventually was taken by James Shaffer and Mrs. M. B. Conchman, who, it is intimated, were secured by Mrs. Wing. A week ago last Saturday, immediately after his release, he was seen with the woman at the corner of Main and First streets where he had a car for the Santa Fe station.

When his case was called last Wednesday, Gibbons had disappeared. His bondsmen asked for ten more days of grace in which to locate him, if possible, and Assistant United States District Attorney Moody agreed to this. It was intimated that Mrs. Wing not only knows the whereabouts of Gibbons, but is in communication with him, and that her appearance yesterday was for the purpose of supplying the authorities with this knowledge.

STUDENT IS STRICKEN.

Crack Athlete and Stanford Man Drops to Forefront and Fractures His Skull—Suffers Terrible Shock of Exertion on Track.

Lindley Bynum, Stanford athlete and student, was stricken yesterday while walking along Los Angeles street at the Pacific Electric Depot. He fell to the sidewalk, striking his head with such force he fractured his skull. In an unconscious condition he was taken to the Receiving Hospital.

Not a mark on his head indicated the nature of the accident. Assistant Police Surgeon Johnson noticed a dilation of the pupil of the right eye and recommended an immediate operation to Chief Surgeon Wiley.

Because the operation was performed in less than twenty minutes after the boy was taken to the hospital his life was saved, at least temporarily. A quantity of blood pressing on the brain was drained away.

Mr. Bynum, 20 years old, is the son of Thomas Bynum, superintendent of the W. P. Fuller Company plant here, living at No. 101 Hillcrest boulevard, Monrovia. He was the youngest student ever to graduate from the Monrovia High School, where he became prominent because of his exceptional ability as a mile runner. Later he entered the University of Southern California, where he achieved unusual success in athletics.

He overdid his athletic work and was forced to spend two years in the mountains. For the past two years he has been attending Stanford, with a view to becoming an aviator. He was to have returned Sunday and was downtown to select books from the library when attacked.

His condition is critical.

WHISKY TOO OLD.

Man Who Can Drink Ten-Year Stuff and Lickens Try to Kill Himself as Result of Being Only Two Years Better.

Whisky ten years old had little effect on Nels Nelson, 44 years old, but when he drank 12-year-old whisky he became insane. Several times he had been in trouble, due to the aged whisky, and each time he had attempted to end his life.

Recently he has been out of work, and incidentally, on his mind, depression was so keen he determined to kill himself, but lacked the courage. He knew if he could drink some 12-year-old whisky the courage would come.

So he borrowed 15 cents from a friend and searched the city until he secured some 12-year-old whisky. Then he drank it at one sitting.

The police found him propped up against a telephone post and took him to the drunk tank in the City Jail. When he became partly sobered he wrapped his shirt in a tight roll around his neck, fastened one end to a steel bar and attempted to hang himself.

Other prisoners saw him, but most of them were half-asleep. Those who saw him so infuriated they could not get to their feet to give aid. All they could do was to kick some of the sleeping drunks, and in that way secured aid for Nelson. When taken to the hospital Nelson's injuries were found to be minor.

HEARING POSTPONED.

Charge Against Theatrical Manager Comes Up Today.

Richard Bennett, theatrical manager, accused of embezzling $275 from Theodore Kosloff, Russian ballet leader, appeared before Justice Hatcher yesterday, but the case could not be reached, it was continued until today.

Mr. Bennett still remains non-committal when asked for his views concerning the charge. He intimates that the ballet leader has not trusted him right. The members of the troupe crowded into the courtroom, all buzzing with excitement. There appear to be two factions.

FIVE YEARS FOR DOLLAR WATCH.

Record Sentence, Proportionate to Value of Robbery, is Dealt Out.

Frank Henson, was yesterday given a sentence of five years in San Quentin for holding up E. Lubansky and taking away his dollar watch. With Henson at the time was John D. Starr, who was on trial before Judge Nichols, sitting in Judge Craig's department. There were several other young men in the gang that on the night of January 29, held up Lubansky and took the watch.

So far as known this sentence sets a local record for severity in proportion to the value of the loot. The law, however, does not take the latter into account.

SHE SEEKS DIVORCE; ALLEGES CRUELTY.

PROMINENT PASADENA WOMAN WANTS SEPARATION.

End of Romance that Extended from New York to Budapest and Thence Across the Waters and Continues to Southern California. Plaintiff Daughter of Millionaire.

Just a week from the day that her sister, Miss Margaret Bundy of No. 1365 Oakland avenue, Pasadena, announced her engagement to Leigh Guyer, prominent Altadena society and club man, Mrs. Helen Fairchild Bundy-Kellogg filed suit for divorce from her husband, Dr. Kenneth Everingham Kellogg of New York.

In her complaint, filed yesterday by her attorney, Jefferson P. Chandler, Mrs. Kellogg gives cruelty as the basis for her suit.

Last night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Harlow E. Bundy, with whom she lives, Mrs. Kellogg refused to discuss at length events of her married life. She said she married Dr. Kellogg in New York City November 9, 1912, and that the separation followed a year later.

The romance, which started out auspiciously, was one of those Old World affairs that extended from New York, where the courtship and wedding took place, to Budapest for the honeymoon tour, and then a year later across the continent to Pasadena, where the separation followed.

Mrs. Kellogg is the daughter of the late Harlow Bundy, who, until his sudden death a few months ago in Oak Knoll, was treasurer and president of the Pasadena Civic Club. She was born in New York, and her father was a millionaire, purchased a beautiful home in Oak Knoll. He had died the night of his arrival there.

For while the family lived at the Maryland Hotel, Miss Margaret Bundy took the society set by storm with her beauty, her vivacity and charm. Until her father's death she was at the head of everything going in a social way. Mrs. Kellogg, whose beauty was also the subject of much comment, lived a more quiet life and was seldom seen at a social event unless invited to one.

When the first class in first aid to the injured was organized under the auspices of the American Red Cross Society in the Crown City by a number of prominent society girls, Mrs. Kellogg, with her younger sister, were among the first to join, and both of them have taken an active part in the study. Very few persons ever heard Mrs. Kellogg speak of her husband, and because of her quiet demeanor, most of them thought he was dead. There are no children.

HUNDREDS OF PATRONS.

Big Crowd Attends Festival at Old Plaza Church.

The Altar Society of the Church of Our Lady Queen of the Angels had its hands more than full last night in caring for the hundreds of guests who participated in the festival given in the court back of the church.

The court was beautifully decorated with greenery and many electric lights, and during the evening an orchestra gave a musical program. Spanish dishes were served, and the throng was so great that it "ate out" the supplies.

Many guests had reserved special tables for their parties. Among these was the party of Signor Constantino, who had as his guests Charles Lomina, Dr. J. Z. Urburu, Dr. J. N. Robledo, Gen. C. J. Brisciano and A. L. Valles. Mrs. Lomina and Miss Lucretia del Valle had a party, and there were many other such groups, including many members of the old Catholic families of Los Angeles.

The festival will continue today. From 12 to 2 o'clock the Altar Society will serve luncheon, making a specialty of popular Spanish and Mexican dishes, and this evening from 6 o'clock onward a Spanish dinner will be served. Ample provision will be made today for the serving of all possible guests, and the public is invited to patronize the women, who are raising a fund to meet the general church expenses.

Bordwell to go Personally Before Supreme Court.

Booth is Indorsed at Many Republican Meetings.

Long Beach Plans Rally for Southern Candidate.

Former Judge Walter Bordwell is so determined that his name shall not be printed upon the primary election ballots as a candidate for the United States Senate that he will appear personally before the Supreme Court tomorrow to argue the case.

In common with many other learned jurists, Mr. Bordwell takes the position that the letter's candidacy, if he is to be a candidate, has the right to say whether his name shall be printed. The decision of the Supreme Court will be awaited with interest throughout California.

Mr. Bordwell, who, until a few days ago, was an opponent of Willis H. Booth, is now actively engaged in furthering the latter's candidacy. He realizes that if his name is printed on the ballots it may result in creating the vote that would elect him. Mr. Bordwell has prepared to make a strong plea before the highest tribunal of the State tomorrow.

Characterizing the candidacy of Hiram Johnson for the Republican nomination as political juggling never before equaled in California history, Attorney Frank R. Belcher addressed a large and enthusiastic booth meeting yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Spencer, No. 323 East Twenty-eighth street.

It is the solemn duty of every Republican man and woman in California to resist the attempted invasion of Gov. Johnson by getting out and working for the nomination of Mr. Willis H. Booth, who is the only regular candidate for United States Senator, declared Attorney Belcher.

"Johnson is not entitled to any recognition by the Republican party or the people of the State of California, even as a Progressive candidate, for he has thwarted the will of the people at every opportunity."

STRONG FOR BOOTH.

In making out the Board, Capt. Osborne, who is a candidate for Congress from the Tenth District, said that the people of California should use every right means to place Booth in Congress. "I have known Willis Booth for many years and I wish to say this, you can go up the State and down and you will find no man better qualified to protect California's rights in Congress than our own Willis H. Booth. He is a man of the people, and he is a man of the people."

Mr. Booth is making a thorough campaign along the Coast from San Francisco south. He will arrive in Los Angeles Friday afternoon and have lunch at the Potter Hotel. In the afternoon he will stop at Carpinteria, Summerland, Ventura, Oxnard, Camarillo, and have dinner at the Hollywood Hotel at 6:30 o'clock, speaking there in the evening.

A Long Beach is planning a big mass meeting for tomorrow evening in honor of Mr. Booth. Auditor's Report Shows Some Huge Figures.

The total assessed valuation of property in Los Angeles county has reached the immense sum of $980,401,631, according to the annual report of County Auditor Lewis, which was filed yesterday with the Board of Supervisors.

This shows an increase of more than $50,000,000 over last year and is due largely to the advances made by the Joint Bureau of Appraisal. The increases in property valuations have been decidedly more numerous than the decreases, but the board and County Assessor Hopkins have expressed the opinion that the new valuations are more accurate and reliable than those of the past.

According to Auditor Lewis's report, the assessed valuations have been divided as follows:

Property exclusively within Los Angeles, $457,127,800.

Property inside other incorporated cities, $147,405,407.

Property outside of incorporated cities, $142,508,725.

Total amount of operative roll, $132,511,732.

Total unsecured personal property, $30,546,681.

The total amount of property, real and personal, less the amount of operative rolls, is $797,887,806. In the operative rolls are included all such properties as the street railways, gas and electric corporations and public utilities operating under a franchise whose taxes go directly to the State.

Security in Epidemics

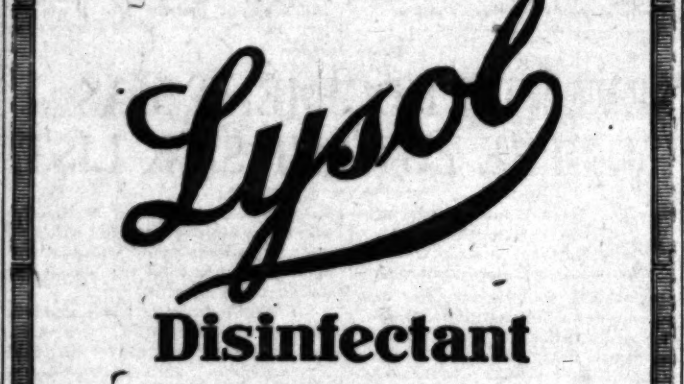

Guard your home, protect your children and yourself in epidemics and contagious diseases by the regular use of Lysol.

Disease germs are everywhere; they breed in dark places, in closets, in toilets, in sinks, and in cracks and crevices in floors and walls.

They increase by millions in garbage pails, cuspidors, clogged sinks and cesspools, in defective plumbing, and wherever flies and insects are likely to breed or congregate.

The regular use of Lysol will make your home germ-proof because it positively and immediately kills all germs, no matter what their nature.

JACK RYAN A LIFE SAVER.

Faces Awful Situation in the Ninth Inning.

Rut Retires Side with One
Thrown Ball.

Thereby Saving the Game for
One C. Hall.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.
"When the situation is gummed
send in a riot call for Jack Ryan"

seems to be a safe motto to stick to these days.

With one sweep of his well-known arm Jack Ryan yesterday saved a 3-to-2 game for Los Angeles. This happened in the ninth, as should all deeds of great valor.

Charley Hall, after blanking the Beavers for eight rounds, began sneaking dangerously in the final,
and the three-run lead to which he had been spotted was melting in an alarming manner. Jack Roche touched off a single by way of starting the ninth, going to second when Maggert failed to stop the drive.

Nixon filed to Mag, who held Roche on second. Vaughn, batting for Ward, drew a pass. Fisher was sent in to pickle one for Lowdermilk.
Great Gus smashed one which Koerner galloped while it was warm.

Righting himself over to first, took Koerner's rather wide throw, dragging one toe across the base just before Great Gus thundered across the same. That is, he thundered across the base, not the toe.

RATHER WARM.
This placed runners on second and third with two out. Little Willie scored them both with a line single to center. That lead was now so small as to be hardly visible to the naked eye. Only those wearing spectacles could see it clearly. Evans popped a Texas leaguer into short right. Murphy scurried back and missed reaching the ball by a hand's breadth. This was strictly in the nature of tough luck, but Chance, fearing that Hall might prove to be just naturally unlucky, told Jack Ryan to go in and hold the fort.

The situation that confronted Ryan consisted of runners on first and second and Capt. Bill Rodgers crouched at the plate. Bill had already made two hits, and is inclined to be a bad actor in a pinch. Mr.
Ryan showed no outward trace of excitement, and displayed no more emotion than an oyster on the half shell. He also says that he felt calm in the interior.

QUITE BRIEF.
The preliminaries were short and businesslike and free from pomp or other unnecessary display. First, Jack pulled his cap down over his nose, partly to protect his eyes and nose from the sun and partly to conceal his thoughts from Mr. Rodgers, who is said to be a mind-reader.

Bill can read the mind of a pitcher whose cap is tilted on the back of his head, or who has no cap, but it stumpers him when the cap is pulled down over his nose. Therefore, Bill was completely baffled and had no idea what Jack would do next.

Jack looked the ball over to see that it was the regulation size and shape and to make sure that it wasn't loaded. Satisfied on all these points, he took a fresh chew, wiped his nose and cut loose with all the power and force worthy of the league's leading pitcher. The ball broke up a triple, and Rodgers, swinging under it, produced a foul that seemed to be approximately a high. Johnny Bassler un-dressed his head, removing everything but the hair, and, after revolving around a few times like a lawn striker, got under the twisting foul and caught it. Jack walked back to the bench as unconcerned
as if he hadn't done anything more important than roll a cigarette.

VERY TOUGH.
Grover Lowdermilk for the second time within a week experienced all those peculiar sensations that go with losing a four-hit game. Only a few days ago he let Vernon down with four bingles, merely to have the pastime kicked away. Yesterday he allowed the same number, but lost it in the course of the game, these blows following walks and other manifestations of wildness in a way producing maximum results.

Stellwagen of Minneapolis, champions of the Northwest, in five sets. The semi-finals are scheduled for tomorrow and the finals will be played on Friday to select a pair to meet Johnston and Griffin in the national challenge match August 25 at New York.

The Coast men were far and away superior to their opponents in every way, due to their wonderful placing and smashing game. The summaries of the McLoughlin-Dawson match follow:

First set—
McLoughlin-Dawson 4 4 2 4 5 4 —27-8
Cannon-Lindauer 1 1 2 3 0 2 —13-1

Second set—
McLoughlin-Dawson 6 4 1 4 2 3 4 —32-6
Cannon-Lindauer 4 0 2 1 1 4 0 —21-3

Third set—
McLoughlin-Dawson 2 4 1 1 1 4 5 4 —30-6
Cannon-Lindauer 4 0 0 4 0 3 1 3 —19-3

Lindauer and Cannon, dreading the mizzling smashes of the former national champion, let the "Comet" alone and centered their attack on Dawson. For their part the westerners went for Lindauer and played from Cannon most of the time. When McLoughlin did get a chance he took care of it in old-time fashion. His driving and smashing were impossible to handle, and his service, though not so projectile-like as it was once, could not be returned for placement shots. Dawson showed up well at the net and placed accurately.

The Chicago team—Walter T. Hayes and Ralph W. Burdick—represented the West against Bradley Hogue and George Wright of Dallas, from the Southwest. The local pair won in easy style, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3. Burdick's smashing and net play and Hayes's back-court work figured largely in the victory.

There would have been four doubles matches and no singles had not the drawings for the team events last night placed Church and Willis Davis of San Francisco in the bye provided by the withdrawal of the Middle Atlantic holders, Conrad B. Doyle and George Breck of Washington, D. C.

George M. Church of Tenafly, N. J., successfully defended his title of western singles champion, and in doing so outwaded, outdove, out-smashed and even outplaced Heath Byford, the local star, who attempted to wrest away the title laurels. Church repeated his performance of last year, when he won from Byford in the final round, in more decisive fashion, taking straight sets, 6-4, 6-0, 6-1.

For the first six games of the opening set each man won his service, but Church broke away with three love games out of the next four and captured the set, 6-4. The second frame was all one-sided. The challenger won only the fifth game of the final set.
